Feminists for Life is a pro-woman pro-life organization. The feminist part is they support equal opportunity and equal protection under the law for women, i.e., "mainstream" feminism minus the abortion rights agenda. The pro-life part means they are anti-abortion, anti-capital punishment, anti-euthanasia, etc., i.e., support a consistent life ethic. From the statement of purpose: "As seekers of peace and equality and protectors of life, we pursue constructive, non-violent solutions to human problems. Since feminism rests upon the principles of justice, non-violence, and non-discrimination, abortion and other forms of institutionalized killing are inconsistent with these founding principles. We seek to identify and correct those practices which exploit women and children and deny them their true equality. As feminist women and men, we must be consistent in our demand for human rights." FFL is a secular organization and a national one, though many states have state chapters.

Fund for the Feminist Majority, The [USA]

(also called The Feminist Majority Foundation)

P.O. Box 96780

Washington DC 20077-7277

The Fund for the Feminist Majority, located in Washington DC, was founded by Eleanor Smeal a few years ago [2-4], primarily as a research organization or a feminist institute. Eleanor Smeal is a former NOW president.

Its status as an organization separate from NOW is unclear to me [and others too]. Some people include the Fund as part of NOW, others believe Ms Smeal still runs NOW. In any case, the methods of the two groups are different. The Fund does not "lobby" in the typical sense of the word, as NOW does. However, the Fund does maintain strong positions such as: pro choice- anti pornography. The Fund accumulates and disseminates information about the status of, and on issues pertaining to, women. The Fund's primary campaign has been the "5% campaign", referring to the fact that while women comprise the majority of the population, they have only a meager 5% representation in all forms of government. The goal of this campaign is to get more women elected to government positions. It seems to be the Fund's belief that social change will only happen through changes in government.

International Network of Women in Technology (WITI) [USA]

4641 Burnet Avenue,

Sherman Oaks CA 91403

WITI@cup.portal.com, 818 990-1987.

Press Release in December 1991: The International Network of Women in Technology (WITI) today announced the formation of a grass roots organization of women in technology from all sectors.

A cooperative, mutually supportive international organization, WITI seeks to form strategic alliances with industry, government and universities to dramatically improve the status of women in technology towards advancing into higher levels of management and fulfill significant leadership roles. "In industry and government, the role of technology is a critical factor in winning global markets and establishing timely competitive advantages. Women are positioned as never before to participate on an equal economic and political status with men!" said Carolyn Leighton, Founding Executive Director and President of Criterion Research. The recent Department of Labor "Glass Ceiling Report" recently concluded that women are not successfully pushing beyond mid-management boundaries - only a 3% difference in the last 10 years. In the executive management ranks, the track record is even more dismal, according to a recent Fortune survey. WITI's mission is to change this statistic dramatically by ensuring that its members can participate in opportunities where their capabilities and expertise can have significant positive impact and visible success. One key to success is the ready accessibility to and leverage of information and expertise available through the WITI worldwide electronic network. "It is time for us to return to a positive, entrepreneurial, pioneering spirit", continued Leighton. "Our energy should not be wasted on defensive or offensive tactics, but instead, affirm the power we already hold - our intelligence, intuitiveness, creativity and natural leadership skills. We want to team with top leaders to find better technological solutions to problems not being dealt with effectively.

Instead of insisting on nonsexist terms, I would prefer to see and hear terms like 'Chairwoman of the Board' as frequently as 'Chairman of the Board'." WITI plans to link with other organizations to leverage others' efforts to the benefit of WIT members and looks forward to making contacts with other groups committed to improving women's participation in technical leadership.

League of Women Voters, The [USA]
PO Box 96045
Washington, DC 20077-7330
OR (don't know which is current)
1730 M Street Washington, DC 20036
(202) 429-1965

"Founded in 1920, the League of Women Voters is a nonpartisan political organization that encourages citizens to play an informed and active role in government. At the local, state, and national levels, the League works to influence public policy through education and advocacy. Any person of voting age, male or females, may become a League member. All members receive 'The National Voter.'" The League DOES NOT endorse candidates! It does endorse issues at the local, state, and national levels. It currently holds the position, at the national level, that "public policy in a pluralistic society must affirm the right of privacy to make reproductive choices." The cover story in the April/May 1991 "National Voter" was on "Protecting the Right to Choose" full-page letter from the LWV President in that issue detailed the League's "Take Back the System" campaign.

"Take Back the System" endorses:

- 1) Push for televised debates during primaries.
- 2) A 900 number for campaign watches, for voters to complain about or praise specific campaigns.
- 3) Expand the electorate -- improve and extend registration efforts, particularly among 18-25 year old Americans.
- 4) Push for campaign finance reform: limit the amount candidates can receive from PACs; limits and disclosures of "soft money" donations; restore federal tax credits for small political contributions from individuals.
- 5) Push to reach "disaffected" citizens who have taken themselves out of the "system" because of frustration, anger, or confusion.

Movement for the Establishment of Real Gender Equality (MERGE) [CAN] 10011 116th Street
Suite 501
Edmonton, Alberta T5K 1V4 CANADA
Phone: (403) 488-4593

MERGE was founded in mid 1987 by Professor Ferrel M. Christensen of the University of Alberta, as an organisation dedicated to gender equality, supporting both the women's movement and the men's movement, without showing bias towards either. Since MERGE incorporates the concerns of both men and women, its members consider themselves to be "equalists" and "humanists" working towards equitable treatment of both genders.

MERGE has come under fire for not being dedicated enough towards men's issues, while many in the feminist movement have condemned MERGE for taking a stance which they consider to be "pro-male," "anti-feminist," and "anti- women". To counter these charges, MERGE has published an eight-part statement of purpose. Some of its major positions include:

- Opposition to any imposition of sex roles and sex role stereotypes
- Support for legal and educational issues of importance to both men as and women.
- Equal costs for men and women in all economic matters, ie., insurance, services, etc.
- Support for the principle that divorce settlements should be based on contributions of labour (including housework) and money, rather than on a presumption of equal contributions or a subsection determination of need for either party.
- Support for a legal presumption of joint custody in divorce cases.
- Support for the principle that whatever legal rights women have to claim or renounce legal parenthood, should also be matched by corresponding rights for men. This is a "Pro-Choice" stance which also includes the newly-growing groundswell of support for the concept of "Pro-Male Choice" in addition.
- Equal support for all victims of violence, whether female or male, and the elimination of gender-based stereotypes regarding this subject. National Action Committee on the Status of Women.

The [CANADA] National Organization of Women (NOW) [USA] NOW is the National Organization for Women. It was headed by Molly Yard for many years; Patricia Ireland is the new president as of 1991.

1) Pro-choice.

2) Officially neutral on questions of banning pornography: ``We are, obviously, acutely aware of the dangers of limiting free speech and publications, because many feminist publications have been, at various points, subject to suppression."

Patricia Ireland, [at the time] NOW's executive vice president.

Society of Women Engineers [USA]

United Engineering Center, Room 305

345 East 47th Street New York, NY 10017 (212) 705-7855

(From the SWE Section Manual:)

"The Society of Women Engineers is a non-profit, educational, service organization of graduate engineers, men and women with equivalent engineering experience, and men and women who are dedicated to the advancement of women in the the engineering profession. It is a national organization numbering in the thousands with some international members."

The Society of Women Engineers:

- Stimulates women to achieve full potential in careers as engineers and leaders
- Expands the image of the engineering profession as a positive force in improving the quality of life
- Demonstrates the value of diversity."

SWE is organized in local "sections" (both student and professional). Many sections of SWE have speaker's bureaus that give speeches/presentations to local schools, many are involved in Girl Scouts badge programs. One section actually began a "Teacher In Service Training Program", where local SWE members ran a course to teach more science to elementary school teachers. There are regional meetings and a national convention too. I attended a regional convention that focused upon skills development (e.g. negotiation skills, mentoring (giving and receiving), public speaking).

Women's Action Alliance [USA]

Women's Action Coalition (WAC) [USA]

The Women's Action Coalition formed after the Anita Hill hearings, but also in response to a variety of concerns such as dissatisfaction with more established, sedate, women's organizations and the general backlash against women's advancements in obtaining human rights.

WAC started in New York and there are now at least 10 chapters around the country. WAC's motto is "WAC is Watching. We Will Take Action." Its logo is a woman's eye. What characterizes their protests is a lot of visual creativity and group drumming during marches and protests. The objective is to make a "remarkable" and effective statement addressing a particular issue that concerns women. The group attracts all kinds of women (bankers and lawyers included), but there is a clear radical element, and many of them are artists.

Women Against Imperialism [USA]

3543 18th St. #14
San Francisco, CA 94110 USA
tel: 415-995-4735

202-544-4517 (fax)

Committed to increasing female representation in the US Senate. Bipartisan. Agenda includes: sexual equality, preserving Roe vs. Wade and supporting women as agents of change. In 1992, WCF expects to contribute nearly 1,000,000 in cash and technical assistance to more than 200 candidates. They put out a short newsletter describing the candidates they support.

Women in Engineering Program Advocates Network (WEPAN) [USA]

WEPAN (Women in Engineering Program Advocates Network) was founded 2 years ago by Cathy Deno and directors of Women in Engineering Programs at Stevens Institute of Technology (Susan Metz) and the University of Washington (Suzanne Brainard). We had a national conference sponsored by NSF and several corporations in June, 1990 at which it was decided to form a new organization (rather than become a part of the Society of Women Engineers or the American Society of Engineering Education).

The purpose of WEPAN is "to increase the number of young women who pursue careers in engineering by encouraging the initiation and expansion of Women in Engineering Programs at colleges and universities throughout the United States." WEPAN was incorporated in 1991 and held another National Conference.

We now have a membership of some 239 individuals from more than 100 different institutions and companies. There are several publications which have resulted from the first two years of existence which may be of interest to you. All of them can be ordered from:

Women's Online Network (WON) [USA]

The Women's Online Network (WON) will distribute information, aid in the coordination of useful political action, and provide a forum for developing strategies to improve the position of women in our society. Carmela M. Federico and Stacy M. Horn founded WON in January 1992. It is based in New York City on ECHO, Ms. Horn's public BBS.

Its members will include online women, women's organizations, and citizens throughout the United States who are interested in a just society. WON will focus on direct action, advocacy, and dissemination of the information that women need to "make decisions, work freely and play with abandon." Groups have already used WON to distribute information about silicone breast implants and to coordinate efforts to prevent the re-election of Congresspeople who voted to confirm Judge Thomas.

Through Internet mail, WON members will communicate with each other and post notices of political actions. A discussion forum on ECHO will also be established, the contents of which will be distributed electronically to members who choose not to join ECHO. ECHO membership will be offered at a reduced rate to WON members. To join WON, you can contact the co-founders at (212) 255-3839 (voice), (212) 989-8411 (ECHO) or via email to either: carmela@echo.panix.com or horn@echo.panix.com. Membership entails a yearly fee of $20, negotiable if necessary.

American Women's Self Defense Association

Lindenhurst, NY 11757

Attention: Elizabeth Kennedy

(516) 226-8383

A non-profit organization, AWSDA is dedicated to promoting women's awareness about rape prevention and self defense. FBI statistics indicate that one in ten women will be raped. Some studies have shown that one in four women may be sexually assaulted in her lifetime. These figures, if correct, are abhorrent and AWSDA is trying to do something about it. AWSDA is in the process of setting up programs to do things such as national advertising campaigns, and maintaining a referral database of services available for victims of violent crimes. AWSDA helps to further educate male and female self defense and rape prevention instructors by holding an annual seminar and by publishing a quarterly newsletter. Through sharing our expertise (particularly via the newsletter and annual seminars)

AWSDA brings together all of those people interested in women's self defense. In order to continue to achieve these goals and more, AWSDA needs the support of interested, motivated persons. We need you - men and women who care enough to show their support for AWSDA. Men and women from all walks of life and all backgrounds. Together we can make a difference. Call or write to the address above or e-mail to "eileen@camb.com" for more information and an application form. If you e-mail to me, please be sure to include your postal mailing address. We look forward to hearing from you.

Committee on Women in Science and Engineering (CWSE) [USA]
The National Research Council (NRC) has established, within the Office of Scientific and Engineering Personnel, the Committee on Women in Science and Engineering (CWSE) in 1990. The latter is responsible for activities for facilitating the entry and retention of a greater number of talented women into scientific and engineering careers. Therefore, they are mainly focused on the postsecondary segments of the Education/Employment pipeline. They held their first meeting in March 1991 and their activities are as follows:

- (1) collect and disseminate current data on the participation of women in science and engineering in the fields of academe, government, industry, and professional societies.
- (2) monitor the progress of efforts to increase the participation of women in S&E careers

(3) conduct symposia, workshops and other meetings to explore the policy environment, to stimulate and encourage initiatives in program development for women in S&E, and to evaluate their effectiveness on a regular basis

(4) propose research and conduct special studies on issues relevant to women scientists and engineers so as to develop reports to document evidence and articulate NRC recommendations for actions.

EMILY (Early Money Is Like Yeast)'s List is a "donor network" --the organization itself does not give money to candidates; instead, it recommends a list of candidates to the members of the network and the members write checks directly to the campaigns of the candidates they choose. Their focus is on electing pro-choice Democratic women to state and national office. They distribute a well-researched and very detailed (2 pages' worth) profile of each recommended candidate to the network membership. To become a member of EMILY's List, one must pay a membership fee of $100 every 2 years, and pledge to write a minimum of 2 checks a year, for a minimum of $100 each, to a minimum of 2 candidates.

FFH has a "woman to woman" program that raises money to lend to impoverished women. The women use the money to start a business that allows them to raise their standard of living. Typically, a $40 loan is enough to start these women up and the loan repayment rate is very high. From their blurb: "In most villages, about 30 women form their own solidarity group, a kind of support network. Each woman brings her own income-earning proposal to the group for approval and support. Then, the group as a whole applies for the loan from FFH. The group distributes the loan and funds to its individual members and is responsible for repayment...More than 80% of our borrowers use profits from their income-generating activities to purchase food for their children. They also purchase medicine and clothing. After the loans are made, the women continue to meet weekly or biweekly in their solidarity groups to share their progress, discuss any problems and make payments on their loans...The solidarity group structure is an integral part of the "Credit with Education" effort because it provides a positive, supportive environment for the spread of knowledge. It is heard that the women learn how to best use their earnings to improve their family's nutrition and learn more about the use of family planning methods, including birth spacing, and how they contribute to the overall health and well-being of both mothers and children."

The Project on Women and Disability is a feminist community organization serving women whose lives are affected by disability.

Their mission is to eliminate sexism and disability bias and to empower women with disabilities as equal and active members of the community. The Project works to create leadership in the disabled women's community around issues such as reproductive and parenting rights, new genetic technologies, health care reform, accessibility, employment and education. The Project on Women and Disability is led and staffed by women with disabilities, and is on the forefront of a grassroots movement for social change.

The Project provides: support and advocacy groups, training workshops on women-and-disability issues, community-building resources, a monthly Think Tank for discussion of theory and policy around women and disability, and a periodic journal called WILDA: Women In Leadership / Disability Activists.

1275 K Street NW Suite 750
Washington DC 20005

The Young Women's Caucus (YWC), an affirmative action group of the National Women's Political Caucus (NWPC), serves as a foundation to involve young women in politics and women's issues. As part of the NWPC, it is a multi-partisan, non-profit membership group whose directive will follow the NWPC goals and purposes. The YWC continues an effective women's movement by motivating young women to become politically active at an early age. It organizes the collective strength of young women, to eliminate discrimination, and to contribute to the struggle for representation as equal citizens. The YWC is committed to educating young women on political issues that affect all women, and training them to effectively use the political process. These goals are being realized by offering members the following:

- *Establishing contacts with other politically interested students and professionals

- *Providing mentoring opportunities for guidance, advice, and direction for furthering political career development

- *Informing young members of summer internships, opportunities with political campaigns, and information about prospective employment

- *Supplying young women with resources needed to learn about current political issues and events

- *Directing individual action (i.e.) letter-writing to state senators and representatives to influence legislative change

- *Providing information for young women to establish a Young Women's Caucus on campus. Feminist and Feminist-Oriented Publications. Newsletters, articles, magazines, and journals.

Midwifery Today (1/94)

PO Box 2672

Eugene, OR 97402

1-503-344-7438

1-800-743-0974

midwifery@aol.com

Midwifery Today, a small press magazine located at 390 High Street, Eugene, Oregon, combines one of humanity's oldest professions, midwifery, with some of today's newest methods of communication and networking. In January, the magazine staked its claim on the electronic frontier with an account on America Online and an e-mail address of Midwifery@aol.com.

Although the magazine is small, it has subscribers in 20 different countries and has covered midwifery in areas as diverse as Bali, Russia and Japan. In addition, plans are in full swing for an international Pacific Rim Conference, "Weaving a Global Future," to be held in Hawaii in February 1995. Midwifery Today's electronic outreach extends beyond simply having an E-mail address. The magazine itself actively encourages midwives to use computers and to go online, with articles like "Midwifery in the Information Age," by Linda R. Barnes, MS, CNM, and "PC, IBM, Mac, DOS--Making Sense of the Alphabet Soup," by Daphne Singingtree, CM, both in the Winter 1993 issue. An article about midwives online, also by Singingtree, is slated for the Spring 1994 issue, now in production.

Anyone with full internet access can read Midwifery Today's subscription, submission and conference information on the Nightingale Nursing Gopher at the University of Tennessee and the University of Warwick Nursing Gopher, in England. The Nightingale Gopher also has the bibliography and references for "Guidelines for Serving Disabled Women," a two-part series which appeared in the Autumn and Winter 1993 issues. Founded in 1986, Midwifery Today, Inc. publishes a quarterly magazine filled with up-to-date information on the many issues surrounding birth and midwifery care. Midwifery Today magazine promotes the exchange of ideas and knowledge between many different kinds of birth practitioners, from medical doctors to lay midwives to childbirth educators.

A strong editorial emphasis is teaching women about alternatives in pregnancy and childbirth: including a woman's right to have her children where and how she chooses.

Editorial Policy: The Women's Review of Books is feminist but not restricted to any one conception of feminism; all writing that is neither sexist, racist, homophobic, nor otherwise discriminatory will be welcome. We seek to represent the widest possible range of feminist perspectives both in the books reviewed and in the content of the reviews. We believe that no one of us, alone or in a group, can speak for feminism, or women, as such; all of our thinking and writing takes place in a specific political, social, ethnic and sexual context, and a responsible review periodical should reflect and further that diversity. The Women's Review takes no editorial stance; all the views expressed in it represent the opinion of the individual authors.

Publishes an international listing of over 400 women's magazines IV. Feminist and Women-Oriented Electronic Mailing Lists. A number of universities and companies have local women-only or women-oriented mailing lists; you may wish to inquire the postmaster at your site for any specific local information. A number of lists are managed with automated software; a widely used one is "LISTSERV". When you see a LISERV address, the correct format to use for subscription is SUB <listname> Your Name, where <listname> is substituted with the name of the list (e.g., WMST-L, WOMEN, etc) and where Your Name is simply your real name, not your login or account name. You will be sent more information following such a subscription on how to unsubscribe, suspend mail, and retrieve archived information. Other addresses may or may not be managed by automated software; be SURE to include your name and email address at the end of any message you send to these other addresses. The date indicates when the information was last verified.

Amazons International (8/92) Amazons International is an electronic newsletter for and about Amazons (physically and psychologically strong, assertive women who don't like or fit in with femininity as weakness, wimpiness and subordination and who are not afraid to break free from traditional ideas and restrictions about gender roles), and their friends and lovers. Amazons International is dedicated to the image of the female hero in fiction and in fact, as it is expressed in art and literature, in the physiques and feats of female athletes, and in sexual values and practices. Contact: thomas@smaug.uio.no. Note that some women have pointed out that to them the list seemed rather male-oriented, very physical.

BIFEM-L (8/92) A moderated mailing list for women only. Its purpose is to provide a safe space primarily for bisexual women. Subscription messages should be sent to listserv@brownvm.brown.edu (internet) or listserv@brownvm (bitnet).

EDUCOM-W (8/92) EDUCOM-W is an unmoderated list to facilitate discussion of issues in technology and education that are of interest to women. The list is intended to promote discussion of how EDUCOM can help address those issues in its services to members.

To subscribe, send a message tolistserv@bitnic\(bitnet\) or listserv@bitnic.educom.org or listserv@bitnic.educom.org) (internet).

femail (1/93) Femail is intended to provide a forum for discussion of issues of interest to women, in a friendly atmosphere. The basic tenets of feminism and the day-to-day experiences of women do not have to be explained or defended. Men and women can join, but everyone requesting to be added to the mailing list MUST provide the moderator with:

- 1) a full name;
- 2) a complete uucp path to a well-known host or a fully specified Internet address;
- 3) the correspondent's gender (for records and statistics only). NO exceptions.

To subscribe, send email to femail-request@lucerne.eng.sun.com

This list has many requests for additions and deletions, so please allow some time for your request to be processed. (Despite the huge membership, the traffic is very reasonable.)

FEMECON-L (8/92) For feminist economists. Send subscription requests to listserv@bucknell.edu (internet).

feminism-digest (1/93) This is a simple collation of the articles that appear on usenet's soc.feminism. It is not a mailing list in its own right, although subscribers are told how to send their articles via email to the newsgroup. It is intended for anyone unable to access soc.feminism or simply wishing a digest format. At present, the articles are not filtered. Anyone can join.

To subscribe, send email to feminism-digest@ncar.ucar.edu.

FEMINIST (9/92) This list is owned by the Feminist Task Force of the American Library Association. It deals with issues such as sexism in libraries and librarianship, pornography and censorship in libraries, and racism and ethnic diversity in librarianship.

Subscription messages (SUB FEMINIST Your Name) should be sent to listserv@mitvma (bitnet) or listserv@mitvma.mit.edu (internet).

FEMISA

FEMISA is conceived as a list where those who work on or think about feminism, gender, women and international relations, world politics, international political economy, or global politics, can communicate.

Formally, FEMISA was established to help those members of the Feminist Theory and Gender Studies Section of the International Studies Association keep in touch.

To subscribe: send sub femisa your name to listserv@csf.colorado.edu

FIST (8/92) This list discusses feminism and science and technology. This is an unmoderated list and open to all. The idea of this list is to discuss critiques of science and move beyond those critiques into the realm of how to create feminist science.

Send your request to listserv@dawn.hampshire.edu.

All new members are requested to send in an introduction of themselves first thing.

FEMREL-L (8/92) A list concerning women and religion and feminist theology. Send subscription request messages to listserv@umcvmb (bitnet).

GENDER (8/92) Devoted especially to "discussion of issues pertaining to the study of communication and gender."

To subscribe, send email to comserve@rpiecs (bitnet) or comserv@vm.ecs.rpi.edu (internet) with SUBSCRIBE GENDER Your Name in the message.

Kol-Isha (1/93) Halachic questions and issues concerning women's roles in Judaism. It is a moderated list available through the courtesy of israel.nysernet.

The list encourages Achdut Yisrael and so is open to a member of any group, so long as other group member's positions are respected.

To subscribe, send a message to listserv@israel.nysernet.org.

LIBFEM (10/93) The mailing list for individualist feminists: feminism based on an individual rights approach to feminist issues. The focus of LIBFEM is the classical liberty and individual rights perspective as applied to feminist issues, such as issues regarding ideology, politics, culture, gender, etc., in order to establish a network for information, discourse, cooperation, encouragement and consciousness raising.

Send email to libfem-request@math.uio.no (Thomas Gramstad)

PAGLIA-L (12/93) This list discusses the opinions of Camilla Paglia, author of Sexual Personae, etc.
The listserver is mailserv@ac.dal.ca (sub paglia-l your name in body).

SAIS-L (8/92) Science awareness and promotion.
Send email to listserv@unbvm1 (bitnet) or listserv@unb.ca (internet).

sappho (12/92) Purpose: A forum and support group for gay and bisexual women. The list is not moderated, but may become so if the volume and/or content begins to warrant it. A digest version is available; if you want it, be sure to mention it in your addition request. Men who want to "listen in," for whatever reason, are requested to try other mailing lists instead; sappho membership is limited to women.
To subscribe, send email to sappho-request@mc.lcs.mit.edu.

SASH (8/92) Sociologists against sexual harassment discussion list. As a subscriber, regardless of your experience with sexual harassment, your theoretical framework, your disciplinary focus, your socio-economic location, your organizational status--you are invited to shape the sexual harassment discourse through participation on this discussion board.

However, those whose behaviors the moderator finds to be consistently harassing, disrespectful, and offensive to the subscribers of this list will be unsubscribed.
