

PARKER HOUSE
BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS
November 29, 1990

Welcome to New England Circle.

This evening's Discussion Leader is ROBERT B. REICH, one of America's foremost political economists. Mr. Reich teaches political economics and management at Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government. He serves as leading advisor to politicians, corporations, and government agencies. He is the author of The Next American Frontier, Tales of a New America, and The Resurgent Liberal. His next book, The Work of Nations: Capitalism in the 21st Century which examines the national purpose within the emerging global economy, will appear early next year.

Chairman of the editorial board of The American Prospect, Mr. Reich is also a contributing editor of The New Republic and World Policy and his articles appear regularly in the Harvard Business Review and the Atlantic. He is a regular columnist for Nihon Keizai Shimbun, one of Japan's leading newspapers; and a regular commentator on public radio's "Marketplace" and public television's "Nightly Business Report."

Tonight's Moderator, LAWRENCE INGRASSIA, is the Boston bureau chief of the Wall Street Journal. He oversees the coverage of economic, corporate, political, and social trends for the Journal in New England. A veteran editor and writer with the Journal for 12 years, Mr. Ingrassia has been in Boston since 1986. Previously, he was deputy bureau chief in London.

New England Circle invites men and women of different cultures, political persuasions and professions to exchange ideas and opinions. We invite as many guests as we can to participate in the limited number of Circles held each year.

New England Circle evolves out of a tradition inaugurated here at the Parker House in the 18th Century. Tonight's discussion on global economy could awaken the spirit of those who inaugurated those colloquiums, then called the Saturday Club. Literary giants, such as Ralph Waldo Emerson, Charles Dickens, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and others, gathered regularly for lively informal discussions. These meetings formed a tradition that continues to influence today's Circle which started here sixteen years ago.
