VIDEO WEEK

The enthusiasm of everyone who attended our A-V Open House was greatly appreciated. A great deal of the credit given to me in Dr. Jones' Campus News "thank you" is really due Brian Gorden, Director of Student Activities. Brian, with the help of Mark Singer and other students, arranged many activities during the Video Week at NHC, including the successful TV interview of President Shapiro and Dr. Grace. My sincere thanks to everyone who helped make Video Week a success by working on it, by attending or viewing the events, and by expressing their thanks.

Dick Ball, A-V Director

MANAGEMENT COOP. EDUC.

Register now for cooperative education in F50. The job market is tight. It may take months to find a spot for you. We compete with other colleges and the unemployed for scarce opportunities. All applicants must go through screening process. All candidates must be interviewed by the prospective employer. In any event, April 1 is the deadline for applications.

Administration Needs Sound Management

Management has been, is, and, I believe, will always be the decisive factor in any group activity.

We must not only know what to do, we must know how to do it. Management is both an art and a science. Management science is the knowledge; management art is the ability to apply and to utilize knowledge in a manner that is most effective. You can have all the skill, all the knowledge, all the know-how in any discipline, but if you do not have the art, the ability to sell yourself and your ideas, your knowledge will be of limited value.
