

Fifteenth Anniversary 1974-1988

John Kenneth Galbraith

Bill Moyers

Stanislav Menshikov

What tasks lay before the world's superpowers as they try to solve the common complex problems of poverty, homelessness, food production, education and drugs? Can the socialist and capitalist systems find parallels between their economies that could serve as the basis for cooperation and reform?

This celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of New England Circle focuses on today's major international issue, the coexistence of Capitalism with Communism. Tonight, our Discussion Leaders are two of the world's most brilliant economists representing the two superpowers, John Kenneth Galbraith and Stanislav Menshikov. They will discuss the differences, similarities, strengths and weaknesses of the two contrasting systems. Dr. Galbraith is past President of the American Economic Association and a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters. Dr. Menshikov, a comparative economist, has conducted econometric studies of the American, Japanese and Soviet economies. He has also served in the Secretariat of the United Nations and the Central Committee of the Soviet Union's Communist Party.

Sharpening the dialogue between Drs. Galbraith and Menshikov is the nation's premier public affairs television journalist, Bill Moyers. Moyers is a founding partner of Public Affairs Television, Inc. which he views as "an effort to use television to explore substantive challenges to democracy." Included in Moyers' vast experience as a reporter, commentator, publisher and Special Assistant to the President, is his service as a director of The Council on Foreign Relations.

When New England Circle celebrated its tenth anniversary, we discussed the possibility of a "Spirit of Hope" as we reviewed the prospects for peace in a nuclear age. Undoubtedly, we are in a "changing world climate" as the superpower leaders sit down in Moscow to discuss disarmament. Tonight, we are discussing an atmosphere of economic coexistence and, possibly, cooperation.

Their lively exchange of opinions and ideas in a hospitable and informal setting are traditions that continue to influence today's Circles: private, non-profit gatherings that have welcomed members from every corner of the region. From the start, this setting has encouraged spirited and open exchanges between Circle discussion leaders and every Circle guest.
