HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Haven't seen most of you since 1974 began, so our Happy New Year wish is still timely. We received greetings for all of you (too late for the last Campus News before vacation) from Registrar and Mrs. Walter Zimmermann and from Assistant Professor Norton Phelps, wishing everyone a healthy and happy 1974.

For those of you who are new on campus, this was the second holiday season during which members of the NHC community extended greetings through the Campus News instead of sending cards. They contributed their stamp and card funds to the H. A. B. Shapiro Memorial Library to be used for books, magazines, etc. for the benefit of all. Librarian Bea Jordan extends the sincere thanks of the library staff to those contributors who donated approximately $100 this holiday season.

"THE MULLA RIDES AGAIN"

Last December many theater goers were entertained at NHC by the Threewater company's production of "The Adventures of the Incomparable Mulla Nasrudin." This play was a collection of folktales based on the legend of Mulla Nasrudin, a hero from Persia who was both a mystic and a clown. This year's production, "The Mulla Rides Again," will be equally comic and entertaining. The play will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 17.

"PLAY MISTY FOR ME"

The film "Play Misty For Me" will be shown tonight at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater.

SMOKING OR NO SMOKING

Because the question of allowing smoking in the classrooms was raised in College Council, a committee was set up to make a recommendation on the matter. Since most people are unaware of the effects of smoking on non-smokers, the committee felt that it should attempt to make the NHC community aware of them. Therefore, several articles will appear in the Campus News in order to explain the effects. Following the publication of these articles - after people have had time to make up their minds - a poll will be taken; the committee's recommendation will be based on the results of the poll. The remainder of this article is the first of the series detailing the effects of smoking on non-smokers:

In his 1972 report, the Surgeon General said, "smoking is causing acute irritation and taxing hearts and lungs of non-smokers by loading the air in smoke-filled rooms with carbon monoxide, the deadly poison found in auto exhaust." The American Medical Association estimates that at least 34 million Americans have respiratory conditions that are made worse - sometimes dangerously so - by tobacco fumes. In one recent year, according to the Census Bureau, 7 billion cigars and 573 billion cigarettes were "combusted" into the air, which adds up to approximately 1 billion pounds of burning tobacco. One New York City allergist and internist suggests that, because of this, tobacco might qualify as a major pollutant. Again referring to the Surgeon General's 1972 report, there is cited a Swedish study that found the stillbirths and deaths of infants up to the age of 1 year, were 60% higher for offspring of smokers compared to non-smokers. Also cited in the report is a British survey which disclosed that for every 1,000 births there were 7.3 cases of congenital heart disease among the progeny of smoking mothers as compared to 4.7 among those of non-smokers.

Future articles will deal more specifically with some of these items and will touch upon areas such as the legal action being taken in some states.
